PROMINENT SPEAKERS

Senator G. Mason Owlett, Mr.
George Hemphill, T. R.
Gardner Speak This WeekDOYLESTOWN, Sept. 24—Two important Republican meetings of a county-wide nature are among those listed on the calendar of political events during the next three weeks.Next Saturday afternoon, September 26, at 2 o'clock, following the adjournment of the meeting of the Republican County Committee, there will be a mass meeting in the Doylestown Armory to which the public is cordially invited.Speakers at the meeting will include Senator G. Mason Owlett, of Tioga county; Mrs. George R. Hemphill, president of the Pennsylvania Council of Republican Women, and Theodore R. Gardner, of Etna, Lehigh county, Republican candidate for Congress in the Bucks-Lehigh district.The Bucks County Council of Republican Women will hold an all-day meeting at the Doylestown Country Club on Thursday, October 8, it was announced today by Mrs. John W.
Cooper, of Pineville, president of the Council.The morning session of the women's meeting will be taken up with the annual election of officers, followed by addresses by Mr. Gardner and other Republican candidates.One of the finest programs in the history of the Council has been prepared for the afternoon program of October 8. This will include addresses by Congressman William Ditter, of Ambler; Mrs. Worthington Seranton, vice-chairman of the Republican National Committee; Mrs. John Hampton Barnes, president of the Philadelphia Republican Luncheon Club; and Mrs. Barclay Warburton, president of the Eastern Division Dollar Certificate Campaign.Luncheon will be served at the Doylestown Country Club for the Council meeting and reservations for luncheon should be made with Mrs. Russell
A. Thomas, Doylestown, by October 4.
Transportation will be furnished from Doylestown to the country club on request to Mrs. Fred Martin, Doylestown.Secure Fine Instructors, Leadership Training SchoolApproximately 15 churches, representing about five denominations, are expected to take part in the Leadership School which opens on Monday evening, October 12th, in Bristol Methodist Church.The instructors have been chosen according to the high standards set up by the International Council of Christian Education. The following is a list of the instructors with something of their background, together with the courses that they will teach.Christian Koch, Jr., is a graduate of the University of Pennsylvania and is at present a teacher in Jones Junior High School, Philadelphia. He is an elder in the First Presbyterian Church of Kensington, and is superintendent of the Sunday School. Mr. Koch will teach the course, "Understanding Our Pupils."Miss Elisabeth D. Eggleston, a graduate of Dickinson College, has had a wide experience in Young People's Work. She is at present associate director of religious education of the Philadelphia Conference and is also director of Camp Innabach. Miss Eggleston will teach the course in Christian Worship.Mrs. H. L. Cutshall is superintendent of the primary department in the Chestnut Hill Presbyterian Church.
She is also a supervisor in the vacation school held in that church and teaches in the junior department. Mrs.
Cutshall will teach the course in "Guiding the Religious Growth of Primary Children."Miss Miriam V. Ristine is a graduate of Bryn Mawr College, and belongs to one of the oldest Baptist families in Lower Merion Township and she still resides in Bryn Mawr. She is a very active member of several social service organizations in the city, and is employed as an assistant secretary in the Board of Home Missions of the Methodist Church. Miss Ristine is well qualified to teach the course in "The New Testament, Its Content and Values."The Rev. Norman L. Davidson, a graduate of Wesleyan University, Middletown, Conn., and of Garrett Biblical Institute, Evanston, Ill., is pastor of the Bristol Methodist Church, and will teach the course in "The Christian Message for Our Present Day World."
Miss Mary Smoyer, 819 Pond street,
Bristol, is registrar of the school.

IT'S YOUR MONEY

Under New Dealers' Direction The Liquor Control Board
Diverts Its Profits To Salaried Payroll Instead of Relief
And Other State Needs(NOTE—This is another of a series of articles on state expenditures and tax collections under the Little New Deal.)HARRISBURG, Sept. 24—The New Deal influence on the financial operations of the Liquor Control Board is noteworthy for various reasons.First and foremost is the fact that Governor Earle, Administration fiscal experts and Democratic legislative leaders have lauded the efficiency of the State liquor monopoly under the Earle-appointed Board. Then, too, the Board is presumed to be under civil service and, therefore, less subject to political manipulation than are the majority of State departments, boards and commissions.The Democratic chorus of praise for the new Liquor Control Board echoed through the 1936 special session of the General Assembly when Republicans, seeking to avoid unnecessary new taxes, tried to pry several millions of dollars of profits loose from the Board. The move was blocked at every point by Governor Earle, the Democratic members of the Board and all the New Deal tacticians. They denied loudly that the state store system had $4,000,000 of "excess profits" which could be used to reduce the need for new taxes. They demanded that the Legislature levy a second 10 per cent sales tax on liquor, Governor Earle previously having put through his first ten per cent liquor tax bill. As a final compromise, the Administration agreed that, in exchange for an additional four per cent tax on liquor, the Control Board would pay back to the General Fund $2,000,000 originally loaned to finance the start of the state monopoly system.In the light of these developments, the trend of the Liquor Control Board toward the alleged efficiency standards claimed by Democratic leaders is both interesting and enlightening. A comparison of the Democratic Board's first year with the preceding year discloses a sort of "efficiency" which will be baffling to the business man and disheartening to the taxpayer.

(Copyright 1936 by I. N. S.)TRUJILLO, Sept. 24—(INS)—Last night we spent in a hospital in Cac-eres. Not wounded, but lucky to find a bed anywhere in that war town where 17,000 inhabitants suddenly have had another 5,000 soldiers and camp-followers thrust upon them. Caceres is a fine old Spanish town on a hill girt with antique walls and towers, and it would repay anybody's tourist visit, but we were interested in nothing more artistic than a bed. By bribing a clerk of a photographer's shop, we learned of the chance in the hospital.
Along with all of Caceres we stayed up until midnight, when the curfew put everybody off the square. Then we sought the elusive bed, only faintly confident of success after some of our companions, soldiers from Seville, had decided to sleep in their blankets on the ground.The bed was there, but also innumerable flies which possessed the exceptional talent, peculiar perhaps to Spain, of being able to work in the dark, and all night long. There was no water in the hospital, some defect connected with the war having dislocated the supply. What would happen if a sudden trainload of wounded should arrive makes no pleasant speculation.
Coffee in the morning was served by a smiling garded and tough old woman who could not understand why, although parching for coffee, we left the cups full. It had somehow come in contact with the inevitable rancid olive oil, and the hardest palate must have refused it.We were compelled to breakfast on dry bread—since butter had long since

PRAISES THE MOVEMENT

Judge Calvin S. Boyer, Doylestown, has again accepted the general chairmanship of the Scouting Maintenance and Camp Fund Campaign which is scheduled to start in Bucks County on October 3rd.It is a big responsibility which Judge Boyer takes as he is a very busy man but his intense interest in boys and his ability for leadership, makes his acceptance of the chairmanship assure that the drive will be a success.In an announcement issued from the judge's chambers, seventh judicial district, Bucks County, Doylestown, Judge Boyer said:"I have been asked to shoulder a big responsibility. I have accepted the General Chairmanship of the Scouting Maintenance and Camp Fund Campaign starting Saturday, October 3rd.

Harris, 18, Chester—Traffic Badly Tangled Until Patrolmen Arrive—One Arrest Made for ManslaughterTwo men were killed, each by his own truck, early today, when one truck crashed into the rear of the other on the Bristol Pike at Tullytown.

Dead:

Frank Mitchell, 33, 244 Alice street, Trenton, N. J.

John Harris, 18, West 7th Street, Chester, Pa.

The accident occurred at 5.30 o'clock, east of the curve in the Bristol Pike, Route 13, just at the entrance to Tullytown Borough. A truck of the Shein Trucking Company, Trenton, N. J., parked on the south side of the highway, was struck by a truck of the Allcutt Trucking Company, Chester. The Shein truck was overturned and the driver, Frank Mitchell, was fatally crushed about the head, and died instantly.John Harris, helper on the Allcutt truck, was thrown out of the cab of the vehicle on which he was riding, and fell beneath the wheels. He was decapitated.Express Appreciation For Efforts at NeutralityAt a recent meeting of Burlington and Bucks Quarterly Meeting of Friends held at Fallsington, the enclosed letter was addressed to the senators and local representatives of Pennsylvania and New Jersey, and to President Roosevelt:Fallsington, Pa., August 29, 1936.The Burlington and Bucks Quarterly Meeting of Friends (Orthodox) held in Fallsington, Pennsylvania, recently, instructed its clerks to forward to you its appreciation of the efforts that have been put forth through the Neutrality Act and otherwise to keep this country clear of foreign wars, if and when they may occur. We are grateful for the sentiments expressed by the President in his recent address at Chata-qua Lake.We feel very strongly, however, that drastic steps should be taken to make our neutrality more effective through a definite embargo, not only on munitions, but also on all basic war materials to all belligerents in either civil or international conflict.We are thoroughly opposed to a policy of military expansion and believe that an armament designed solely for the defense of continental United States would be sufficient insurance against foreign embroils and the violation of our own national integrity.We are convinced that the financial profit should be removed from war, and to that end urge the complete nationalization of the munitions industry.

For the Meeting,

DESIRE TO CORRECT ROOSEVELT'S MIS-STATEMENTSNEW YORK, Sept. 24—The scathing reply of William Randolph Hearst to President Roosevelt is still the cause for considerable comment. Hearst, 73 years old, publishes 25 newspapers and in his reply called "a reply to the President" Mr. Hearst said he has shown Mr. Roosevelt receives "the support of enemies of the American system of government."The thousand-word statement was cabled by the vacationing Hearst from Amsterdam, a day after the White House in a statement said "a certain notorious newspaper publisher" was attempting "to make it appear that the President passively accepts the support of alien organizations hostile to the American form of government."
The memorandum said "such articles" are conceived in malice and born of political spite.Hearst's "reply" followed his newspapers' publication of an article asserting Russia and the Communist party of the United States were taking part in the Presidential campaign "on the side of the New Deal."Hearst in his "reply to the President" expressed a desire to "correct
Mr. Roosevelt's mis-statements.""I have not stated at any time whether the President willingly or unwillingly received the support of the Karl Marx Socialists, the Frankfurter radicals, Communists and Anarchists, the Tugwell Bolsheviks and the Itin-berg revolutionaries which constitute the bulk of his following," the publisher asserted."I have simply said and shown that he does receive the support of these enemies of the American system of government, and that he had done his best to deserve the support of all such disturbing and destructive elements."The White House made no comment beyond its original statement, but Earl Browder, Communist candidate for President, said:"The Hearst-Landon campaign must indeed be weakening if it needs such desperate lies to bolster it up."Browder recalled a May 29 speech in which he said "we do not commit ourselves to Roosevelt" through "a united front with workers who support Roosevelt.""We do not and will not take any responsibility for" Roosevelt, Browder said he asserted at that time.

This Strange New Deal

The Tennessee Valley Authority Cooperatives, Inc., one of the many New Deal agencies competing with private business, is empowered to "produce, manufacture, buy, sell and deal in farm products, livestock, goods, wares, and merchandise of every class and description."

Yet, even Vice President Garner wants "to get out of this business of Government in business." Aug. 5, 1936.

COLLEGE EDUCATION PAYS

College campuses from Maine to California and from Florida to the frozen fastnesses of Northern Canada will blossom forth in the early autumn with a brilliant crop of green, perhaps the only example of nature's handiwork which does don a coat of green at the time of the first frost. Thousands of boys and girls as well, products of last June's high school and preparatory school graduating classes, will enter upon the most important period of their education. Their motives for entering college are many and varied, and range from the desire to "make" the football team to spend four years in what seems a prison where learning is forced upon unwilling neophytes in adolaptic doses. It is only fair that the freshman should know what he is going to receive in college and to what extent he will be benefited.

His association is a more or less intimate friendship with members of the college faculty and should beget in him a proper respect for intellectual prowess. He will meet men who through long devotion think their lines of work outshine all others. Thus a capacity for judgment if formed in discerning the more important from other degrees of importance.

Constant mingling with his kind in all manner of college and extra-college activities has a large effect upon the forming of character in the young student. A man who can meet men upon a common ground of intelligence and good judgment, discuss the problems of the day in the manner which he learned in college circles stands higher in the opinions of his fellows. But character and personality without learning do not constitute a college education, nor does a pedantic belief that "book knowledge" is sufficient. Athletics, class room mental vigor and campus activities all contribute toward the finished product of a college graduate. A college man has learned to think, to concentrate upon a question, to use his mental faculties to the utmost, to extract those applicable to the subject.

A new decade with its overnight produce of dimples in the face. A summer resort matinee is fine for dimples, if you don't care where.

Three to four million Americans visit Canada, each summer, though recent is now three years old. It seems a typical case of momentum.

Apparently there still are quite a few Ethiopians who do not understand that they have been honored by membership in Benito Mussolini's new Roman Empire.

The Cleveland Exposition is a model, we believe, for all fairs. To get to the girl shows you must walk through a mile and a half of educational stuff.

"THE BIG FOUR" by Agatha Christie

SYNOPSIS

Hercule Poirot, world-famous detective, is expending every effort to track down a band of international criminals known as "The Big Four." Secret Service Agent Mayerling, who had not been heard from since going to Russia five years ago, mysteriously enters Poirot's home. Though dazed and obviously suffering from shock, he reveals Li Chang Yen, a powerful mandarin is the brains of the Big 4. No. 2 is a wealthy American; No. 3 a French woman, and No. 4 the "Destroyer." Mayerling is murdered with prussic acid while Poirot and his assistant, Hastings, are out. Shortly afterwards, a man claiming to be a keeper at the Hanwell Asylum arrives and identifies the victim as an escaped inmate. Under the pretext of making funeral arrangements, the "keeper" leaves. A telephone call to the asylum discredits his story. Poirot believes he was the "Destroyer" returning to make sure Mayerling was dead. John Ingles, an authority on sinister Chinese affairs, believes Li Chang Yen responsible for world-wide unrest and labor troubles. Ingles shows Poirot a letter from Jonathan Whitney, of Hoppaton, Dartmoor, urging him to send money so he can get out of the country before "The Big Four" get him. Poirot, Hastings and Ingles leave for Hoppaton. They find Whalley slain. A local inspector informs them Robert Grant, alias Abraham Bigger, an ex-convict and Whalley's servant, is suspected of the crime. His master's jade was found in his possession and the footprints of the murderer coincide with his. Poirot visits the scene of the crime. Hastings relates what happens:

CHAPTER VIII

We set out forthwith. Mr. Ingles and the Inspector forged ahead. I drew Poirot back a little so as to be able to speak to him out of the Inspector's hearing.

"What do you really think, Poirot. Is there more in this than meets the eye?"

"That is just the question, mon ami. Whalley says plainly enough in his letter that the Big Four are on his track, and we know, you and I, that the Big Four is no bogey for the children. Yet everything seems to say that this man Grant committed the crime. Why did he do so? For the sake of the jade figures? Or is he an agent of the Big Four? I confess that this last seems more likely. However valuable the jade, a man of that class was not likely to realise the fact—at any rate, not to the point of committing murder for them. (That, for instance, ought to have struck the Inspector.) He could have stolen the jade and made off with it instead of committing a brutal and quite purposeless murder. Ah, yes! I fear our Devonshire friend has not used his little gray cells. He has measured footprints, and has omitted to notice that the jade figures were not on the mat before entering."

The Inspector drew a key from his pocket and unlocked the door of Granite Bungalow. The day had been fine and dry, so our feet were not likely to leave any prints; nevertheless, we wiped them carefully on the mat before entering.

A woman came up out of the gloom and spoke to the Inspector, and he turned aside. Then he spoke over his shoulder.

"Have a good look round, Mr. Poirot, and see all there is to be seen. I'll be back in about ten minutes. By the way, here's Grant's boot. I brought it along with me for you to compare the impressions."

We went into the living-room, and the sound of the Inspector's footsteps died away outside. Ingles was attracted immediately by some Chinese curios on a table in the corner, and went over to examine them. He seemed to take no interest in Poirot's doings. I, on the other hand, watched him with breathless interest. The floor was covered with a dark-green linoleum which was ideal for showing up footprints. A door at the farther end led into the small kitchen. From there another door led into the scullery (where the back door was situated), and another into the bedroom which had been occupied by Robert Grant. Having explored the ground, Poirot commented upon it in a low running monologue.

"Here is where the body lay; that big dark stain and the splashes all around the spot. Traces of carpet slippers and 'number nine' boots, you observe, but all very confused. Then two sets of tracks leading to and from the kitchen; whoever the murderer was, he came in that way. You have the boot, Hastings? Good! It is me. He compared it carefully with the prints. 'Yes, both made by the same man, Robert Grant. He came in that way, killed the old man, and went back to the kitchen. He had stepped in the blood; see the stains he left as he went out? Nothing to be seen in the kitchen—all the village has been walking about in. He went into his own room—no, first he went back again to the scene of the crime; was that to get the little jade figures? Or had he forgotten something that might incriminate him?"

"Perhaps he killed the old man the second time he went in?" I suggested.

"Mais non, you do not observe. One of the outgoing footmarks, stained with blood, there is superimposed an ingoing one. I wonder what he went back for—the little jade figures as an afterthought? It is all ridiculous—stupid."

"Well, he's given himself away pretty hopelessly. I tell you, Hastings, it goes against reason. It offends my little gray cells. Let us go into his bedroom—ah, yes; there is the smear of blood on the lintel and just a trace of footmarks—the blood-stained. Robert Grant's footmarks, and his only near the body—Robert Grant, the man who went near the house. Yes, it must be so."

"What about the old woman?" I said suddenly. "She was in the house alone after Grant had gone for the milk. She might have killed him and then gone out. Her feet would leave no prints if she hadn't been outside."

"Very good, Hastings. I wondered whether that hypothesis would occur to you. I had already thought of it and rejected it. Nelsy Andrews is a local woman, well known hereabouts. She can have no connection with the Big Four; and, besides, old Whalley was a powerful fellow, by all accounts. This is a man's work—not a woman's."

"I suppose the Big Four couldn't have had some diabolical contrivance concealed in the ceiling—something which descended automatically and cut the old man's throat and was afterwards drawn up again?"

"Like Jacob's ladder? I know, Hastings, that you have an imagination of the most fertile—but I implore of you to keep it within bounds."

I subsided, abashed. Poirot continued to wander about, poking into rooms and cupboards with a profoundly dissatisfied expression on his face. Suddenly he uttered an excited yelp, reminiscent of a Pomeranian dog. I rushed to join him. He was standing in the larder in his dramatic attitude. In his hand he was brandishing a leg of mutton!

"My dear Poirot!" I cried. "What is the matter? Have you suddenly gone mad?"

"Regard, I pray you, this mutton. But regard it closely!"

I regarded it as closely as I could, but could see nothing unusual about it. It seemed to me a very ordinary leg of mutton. I said as much. Poirot threw me a withering glance.

"But do you not see this—and this—and this—"

He illustrated each "this" with a jab at the unoffending joint, dislodging small icicles as he did so. Poirot had just accused me of being imaginative, but I now felt that he was far more wildly so than I had ever been. Did he seriously think these slivers of ice were crystals of a deadly poison? That was the only construction I could put upon his extraordinary agitation.

"It's frozen meat," I explained gently. "Imported, you know. New Zealand!"

He stared at me for a moment or two and then broke into a strange laugh.

"How marvelous is my friend Hastings! He knows everything—But everything! How do they say—Inquire Within About Everything. That is my friend Hastings."

He flung down the leg of mutton onto its dish again and left the larder. Then he looked through the window.

"Here comes our friend the Inspector. It is well. I have seen all I want to see here." He drummed on the table absent-mindedly, as though absorbed in calculation, and then asked suddenly, "What is the day of the week, mon ami?"

"Monday," I said, rather astonished. "What?"

"Ah! Monday, is it? A bad day of the week. To commit a murder on a Monday is a mistake."

Passing back to the living-room, he tapped the glass on the wall and glanced at the thermometer.

"So fair, and seventy degrees Fahrenheit. An orthodox English summer's day."

Ingles was still examining various pieces of Chinese pottery.

"You do not take much interest in this inquiry, monsieur?" said Poirot.

The other gave a slow smile.

"It's not my job, you see. I'm a connoisseur of some things, but not of this. So I just stand back and keep out of the way. I've learnt patience in the East."

The Inspector came bustling in, apologising for having been so long away. He insisted on taking us over most of the ground again, but finally we got away.

"I must appreciate your thousand politenesses, Inspector," said Poirot, as we were walking down the village street again. "There is just one more request I should like to put to you."

"You want to see the body, perhaps, sir?"

"Oh, dear me, no! I have not the least interest in the body. I want to see Robert Grant."

"You'll have to drive back with me to Moreton to see him, sir."

"Very well, I will do so. But I must see him and be able to speak to him alone."

The Inspector caressed his upper lip.

"Well, I don't know about that, sir."

"I assure you that if you can get through to Scotland Yard you will receive full authority."

"I've heard of you, of course, sir, and I know you've done us a good turn now and again. But it's very irregular."

"Nevertheless, it is necessary," said Poirot calmly. "It is necessary for this reason—Grant is not the murderer."

"What? Who is, then?"

HELP KIDNEYS PASS 3 LBS. A DAY

Doctors say your kidneys contain 15 miles of tiny tubules or filters which help to purify the blood and keep you healthy. Most people pass about 3 pints a day or about 3 pounds of waste. Frequent or scanty passages with smarting and burning shows there may be something wrong with your kidneys or bladder. An excess of acids or poisons in your blood, when due to functional kidney disorders, may be the cause of nagging backache, rheumatic pains, lameness, leg pains, loss of pep and energy, getting up nights, swelling, puffiness under the eyes, headaches and dizziness. Don't wait! Ask your druggist for Doan's Pills, used successfully by millions for over 40 years. They give happy relief and will help the 15 miles of kidney tubes flush out poisonous waste from your blood. Get Doan's Pills. (Advertisement)

SEPTEMBER IS THE MONTH IN WHICH TO PICKLE FRUIT, ETC.

By Rhonda A. Armstrong
(Home Economics Representative)

For sweet pickle, the fruits this month are Seckel pears, peaches and watermelon rind—pickled by cooking in a sweet-sour, spicy sirup. And there are green tomatoes, which make such good dilled pickle and dilled sweet pickle, or may be long-brined to make into mixed pickles.

For dilled green tomatoes, place a layer of dill, fresh or dried, and about 2 ounces of mixed pickle spices in the bottom of a 5-gallon crock and fill the crock with green tomatoes to within 4 or 5 inches of the top. This will take about 40 to 50 tomatoes of medium, uniform size, which should be fresh picked, well washed, and drained. Over the tomatoes pour a brine made of 1 pound of salt, 2 gallons of water, 1 pint of vinegar, 4 tablespoons of sugar. Then place a layer of dill on the top and cover with a heavy plate to hold the tomatoes under the brine. Use only enough brine to cover, or the liquid drawn from the tomatoes will make the jar overflow. Each day remove the scum that forms over the top and keep the pickles at even room temperature, about 70 degrees or even as warm as 86 degrees if possible.

In about 2 weeks the pickles are ready to use—crisp, well flavored with dill, and clear throughout, with no white spots when cut. To store them, pack the cured pickles in sterilized quart glass jars, and add ½ cup of vinegar to each. Fill up the jars with pickle brine, but first strain it, bring to a boil, and cool. Seal the jars airtight and store in a cool dry place. These dilled tomatoes may be made into sweet pickle if desired, by slicing them thin and packing them in a sweet-sour sirup seasoned with spices, tarragon and olive oil.

SPREADS AND PRESERVES FOR SCHOOL LUNCHES

Early September brings to mind school lunches that will need a little dressing up to make them appetizing. Some children do not need meat sandwiches; some wish a tart one; while others will want a spread to "finish up on."

Cheese sandwiches are greatly improved with a tart relish and a very good one is made of green tomatoes and peppers.

Green Chili Sauce

Three dozen green tomatoes; twelve large onions; one and three-fourths cups sugar; six large green peppers; ten cups vinegar; six tablespoons salt.

Chop fine the tomatoes, peppers and onions or put through the food chopper, using the coarse knife. Add seasoning and boil gently for two hours or until a thick sauce is made. Seal in sterilized jars while sauce is boiling hot.

Pepper Relish

Twelve red peppers; twelve green peppers; twelve medium-sized onions; two tablespoons salt; two cups dark brown sugar; one quart tart vinegar; boiling water.

Put the peppers and the onions through the food chopper or chop coarsely. Pour boiling water over the peppers and let them stand five minutes. Drain and repeat, allowing the second water to stand for ten minutes. Drain. Chop the onions and add to the peppers with the salt, sugar and vinegar. Cook twenty minutes after the mixture begins to boil. Store in sealed, sterilized jars.

Vegetable Salad

One quart green tomatoes; four tablespoons salt; two quarts small cucumbers; one quart small onions; one small white cabbage; two cauliflowers; six green peppers; boiling water; 3 tablespoons salt and mustard dressing made of: 2 cups brown sugar; one cup bread flour; one-third cup mustard; one and one-half tablespoons salt and two and one-half tablespoons turmeric. Add ingredients gradually to two quarts of boiling cider vinegar. Bring to the boiling point and let boil until it thickens.

Wipe and slice the tomatoes very thin. Arrange in a large bowl in layers, sprinkling salt over each layer. Let stand overnight and in the morning drain thoroughly and chop. Place tomatoes in a preserving kettle with the cabbage and cucumbers chopped, cauliflower separated into sections and chopped peppers, the seeds having been removed. Add boiling water to cover the vegetables and cook only until tender, then drain. Pour the mustard dressing over and simmer for fifteen minutes. Pour into sterilized jars and seal with paraffin.

Pear Chips

Eight pounds of sound, firm pears; four pounds sugar; one-fourth pound Canton ginger; four lemons.

Wipe pears, remove stems, quarter and core. Cut into small wafers. Add sugar and ginger and allow to stand overnight. In the morning, quarter lemons, remove the seeds and cut into small pieces. Add lemons to the pears and cook very slowly for three hours. Pack in sterilized jars and seal.

Lemon Fluff Tart

One tablespoon cornstarch, one-half cup sugar, one-eighth teaspoon salt, four egg yolks, slightly beaten, one-fourth cup hot water, one lemon, grated rind and juice; one-half cup sugar, four egg whites, stiffly beaten, six baked tart shells.

Mix cornstarch, one-half cup sugar, salt and slightly beaten egg yolks with water and cook over hot water until thick, stirring constantly. Remove from heat, add lemon rind and juice, and cool slightly. Add one-half cup sugar gradually to beaten egg whites, beating constantly. Fold one-half into lemon mixture and pour into baked tart shells. Pile remaining meringue lightly on top of tarts and bake in a slow oven of 325 degrees F. for about 15 minutes.

Reduced to simplified terms, the profit and loss statement of the Liquor Control Board for the past two fiscal years can be stated this way:

	INCOME
	Fiscal Year Ending May 31, 1935	May 31, 1936
Sale of Liquor	$47,155,892	$63,001,882
License fees and miscellaneous revenues	330,417	1,397,084
Total income	$47,486,309	$64,398,966
	EXPENDITURES
	Fiscal Year Ending May 31, 1935	May 31, 1936
Cost of liquor	$36,397,930	$52,655,104
Other expenditures	4,637,039	5,902,703
Total operating expenses	$41,034,969	$58,557,807
Payments for relief, etc.	6,259,029	2,178,530
Cash balance	192,311	3,662,629
Total	$47,486,309	$64,398,966

On the income side of the two-year comparison, it is necessary to note only that the receipts from liquor sales increased 33 per cent and that the million-dollar jump in license fee and miscellaneous revenue was caused by transferring beer license revenue from the General to the State Stores Fund.

On the outgo side, there is more that invites attention. Total operating costs increased 42 per cent while total income mounted only 36 per cent. Before the Democratic appointees took control, the Board raised $6,259,029 for unemployment relief, old age pensions and other State subsidies. During the year of Democratic control, the Board's only contribution in this direction was to repay the $2,000,000 loan.

Meanwhile, the Board's expenditures for salaries jumped from $2,514,712 to $3,005,061. Wage payments mounted from $2,891 to $18,644 and travelling expenses leaped from $107,649 to $140,738.

The mere increase in salaries under the New Deal, moreover, does not tell the full story, especially since the state store system employees are supposed to be under civil service.

Soon after Governor Earle's appointees took charge, a sudden "economy" wave swept over the state liquor monopoly. Hundreds of employees were dismissed. From January to August, last year, the annual payroll was reduced by nearly $700,000. Between August, last year, and May, this year, there was a general hiring and salary-raising epidemic, with the result that the total payroll from June 1, last year, to May 31, this year, was nearly half a million dollars more than for the previous year.

All of which explains why, under the widely heralded New Deal "efficiency," the Liquor Control Board has more and higher-paid Democrats today than at any stage in its civil service career.

Buick Spends Huge Sum Improving Plant

FLINT, Mich., Sept. 24.—Simultaneous with the disclosure that production is under way in volume on the 1937 line, Harlow H. Curtice, president and general manager of the Buick Motor Company, announced today that an additional appropriation of $14,500,000 is being spent to carry out the production and factory improvements inaugurated two years ago with a $15,000,000 expenditure.

This brings the total expended in improvements by this General Motors division to approximately $30,000,000 over a two-year period.

The program, launched when Buick started plans for its highly successful 1936 line of cars, covers every phase of manufacturing activity—plant and equipment, new tooling and rearrangement of production facilities—and was designed not only to increase plant capacity but also to inject the most modern and efficient methods into engineering and production.

Except for approximately $1,500,000 devoted to the construction of new factory buildings disclosed in a statement by Mr. Curtice a few weeks ago the new appropriation is going into machinery, tools, and a complete rearrangement of departments to step up production.

Buick has enjoyed an unusually successful year, its 1936 cars were highly popular and found a ready market. A considerable number of unfilled orders had to be cancelled when production was stopped for the change-over to the 1937 models.

"Buick's $14,500,000 factory expansion for 1937 follows upon an expenditure of more than $15,000,000 completed a year ago," Mr. Curtice said. "At that time widespread changes were effected in the various production divisions of the company, increasing capacity and bringing up to date the machinery and methods employed at Buick."

"During the past year the heavy increase in volume has taxed these facilities to the limit. The current program will further increase normal final assembly capacity from 800 to 1,000 cars a day and will provide for more adequate and efficient housing of all production operations."

Notable among the projects is the construction of five new buildings which will involve the shifting of entire manufacturing departments into new quarters and the more efficient utilization of other buildings thus vacated. An entirely new transmission plant will have an increased capacity of 70,000 transmissions a month; a new building is being erected to house the master mechanic's divisions, the works engineering division, personnel department, and metallurgical and standards division. Other plans include the construction of a new heat treat building for the gear and axle plant, the demolition of outmoded buildings and the construction of new truck-away and drive-away facilities for delivery of Buick cars to owners and dealers.

Additional steel storage facilities needed by the Forge division due to increased production will be provided by extension of the Forge plant's steel yard crane-way and the installation of additional facilities for handling this material.

The new construction, together with change-over to 1937 model production, involves a complete redesign of the Buick manufacturing layout, Mr. Curtice said. Many major changes already have taken place, while others will be made from time to time until all new buildings are completed and occupied and the various manufacturing divisions affected are functioning in their new quarters. He said the building program and departmental change-overs resulting from it will occupy the major part of a year.

The increase in final assembly operations will affect all manufacturing divisions which have been geared up accordingly, the executive said. Among major items, besides the building program, are complete modernization of the power plant involving installation of new boilers, turbo-generators and other equipment; new machinery installations and rearrangement of production lines in the engine plant; extensive modernization in the foundry involving improved methods of shipping and handling castings, new dust collecting and ventilating systems, improved methods for cleaning castings, said to be outstanding in the industry, and new charging and air supply equipment for the six cupolas.

Much of the new foundry equipment is revolutionary in character and is of special design adapted to Buick needs. The result, besides greater efficiency and better castings, is greatly improved working conditions throughout this important manufacturing unit.

A new heat treat unit for the Forge division has been completed and now is in operation. In addition extensive additions are being made to the equipment of this division including a new 16,000 pound drop hammer for the forging of crankshafts, one of the largest in use in the industry, and new "Buffalo" billet shears which cut cold bar steel to size for the forging furnaces.

One of the principal items in the 1937 model machinery budget is for new gear generating and cutting equipment installed in the gear and axle plant. Installation of new machinery and equipment in the tool division, sheet metal plant, transmission plant and extensive rearrangement of the final assembly line are among other items on the immediate Buick expansion agenda.

RECIPES

Cantaloupe Salad

Select cantaloupes that are ripe but quite firm. Pare and quarter the melon. Remove the seed and cut into pieces one-half inch thick and the length of the quarters. Marinate in a good French Dressing that has been made with oil and fruit juices, using no vinegar. Arrange on a bed of lettuce or romaine in fan shape. Serve with French Dressing and sprinkle a little salt over the melon just before it is sent to the table.

Apple Cider Punch

One quart of sweet cider; one quart pale gingerale or charged water; one-half cup lemon juice; sugar to taste. Mix together the cider, lemon juice and sugar. Place a large piece of ice or ice cubes in the punch bowl. Pour the cider mixture over and add the charged water. Serve.

Oil Cloth Lasts Longer

When oil cloth is new, wash well and polish with liquid wax, the same as used on furniture. This will double the life of the oil cloth and also make it easier to keep clean.

An expenditure of 25 cents for a classified advertisement will sell for you that piece of furniture which you no longer need. And you'll receive several dollars in return.—(Advertisement.)

ALL THAT CERTAIN BRICK MESSAGE AND LOT OF LAND, situate in the Fifth Ward of the Borough of Bristol, in the County of Bucks and State of Pennsylvania, BOUNDED AND DESCRIBED as follows: to wit:

BEGINNING at a point in the Southwest side of Lincoln Avenue a corner of a ten feet wide alley, said point being one hundred feet northwest of the west corner of Wood Street and Lincoln Avenue, thence along the line of said Lincoln Avenue, south thirty-four degrees, nineteen minutes east, twenty-four and seven-tenths feet to a point in line of lands now or late of Dominick Rago, thence by the same south fifty-five degrees, thirty-three minutes west, ten and two-tenths feet to a point, thence still by the same north thirty-four degrees, nineteen minutes west, four feet, thence still by the same south fifty-five degrees, thirty-three minutes West, fifty-five and eight-tenths feet to a point, thence still by the same north thirty-four degrees, twenty-seven minutes west, twenty and seven-tenths feet to a point in line of the above mentioned alley, thence by the same north fifty-five degrees, thirty-three minutes East, sixty-six feet to the place of beginning.

The improvements are a two-story brick building used for a store 22x54 feet with a one-story frame shed attached 10x12 feet and a one-story brick end attached 4x12 feet containing one room and store and shed on the first floor and four rooms and bath on the second floor.

Seized and taken in execution as the property of Giuseppe Lentine and Antonia Lentine, his wife, mortgagors, and Antonia Lentine, real owner of the land charged, William Norato and Augustino Marozzi, tenants in possession, and to be sold by HORACE E. GWINNER, Sheriff.

HOWARD I. JAMES, Attorney. Sheriff's Office, Doylestown, Pa., September 9th, 1936.

The advertisements in this paper are guide-posts to the best values in town. If they weren't the best values in town, by any chance, the advertisers would be foolish indeed to call your attention to them. Because no advertiser can afford to focus upon a fault!

Just as you consult a road-map before taking a tour in your car; just as you pore over a bill-of-fare before ordering lunch or dinner; just as you read reams of booklets and folders before starting out on a cruise—read the advertisements before going downtown into the shopping traffic.

Advertisements are advance news of all that's newest and best in merchandise and service. They show you, in the quiet and comfort of your home, what you may expect when you sally forth into the market-places. You can check the items that interest you, and "chuck" those that don't. Read the advertisements. Read 'em and REAP!

never have to worry about tomorrow. It is our duty to assist our youth in surrounding themselves with the program of Scouting that instills such ideals.

"Necessary leadership, and adequate supplies are essential if we are going to reach 1500 boys and young men in our membership by 1937.

"I have been a contributor to the Council from its start in 1927. For the last three years, I have been a member of the Executive Board. I do not know of any organization that is giving a greater equivalent of one hundred cents for each dollar than the Boy Scouts of America. Our Executive Board has been conservative, and every cent value has been secured.

"Every citizen should give and give generously to continue the work of the Bucks County Council, and to make possible the extending of Scouting to more of our youth. Boys and young men want and need Scouting! We have seen much of its good work. Every citizen should come forward with 'his bit.' With your support we can do the right thing by our boys."

disappeared from most tables—and dubious water lukewarm from the sticky heat of the night.

After a most industrious day yesterday we finally procured with the help of Captain Oliver's pass from General Franco's staff permitting me to go towards the front as far as Trujillo but requiring me there to present myself to the military commander who was hereby authorized to exercise his discretion as to allowing me to go further. This was quite a step forward, although the front lay another seventy miles from Trujillo.

The difficulties of travel in the war zone are terrific. For an outsider there is no such thing as a blanket pass good for travel anywhere. Each trip requires its special permission from the military authorities specifying the point of departure, the time and the destination. And the nearer you get to the front the harder it is to move.

And there is not the remotest possibility of getting by without a pass. Your most famous hardboiled Amer-

SUNDAY DINNER Suggestions

By ANN PAGE

GRAPES are at the height of their season including eastern grown Concord and western Tokays, Seedless Malagas and Ribiers. Apples, pears, and fresh prunes are also plentiful. Cauliflower is not much more expensive than cabbage, good spinach is reasonable and lima beans continue to be cheap. Both sweet and white potatoes are lower.

All meats but veal are cheaper, particularly beef and lamb chops and fresh pork. Eggs and butter prices are little changed. Ducks are reasonable and other poultry prices continue at about the same level. Here are three menus planned for different budget groups.

Low Cost Dinner
Pork Chops Sweet Potatoes
Green Beans
Bread and Butter
Apple Dumplings
Tea or Coffee Milk

Medium Cost Dinner
Roast Duck Apple-Sauerkraut Stuffing
Mashed Potatoes Spinach
Bread and Butter
Grapes Cheese
Tea or Coffee Crackers Milk

Very Special Dinner

returns the pass and reluctantly waves on the courier, who as far as "The Babboon" is concerned is a total stranger although everybody else along the route considers him by now a member of the family.

"The Babboon" of course is the most efficient civil guard in Spain and some day he will probably catch a very important spy.

Fifth stop, as you go towards the front is a native Moroccan "regular" and he comes out from behind a machine gun nest, and you know that if you had any notion of ever running past a picket this is not the one to try it on.

Finally, right up at the front it is the Foreign Legion that stops you and you also come to a quick halt some distance away from him, and wave your pass out from behind a machine gun nest, and you know that if you had any notion of ever running past a picket this is not the one to try it on.

The word to use at once at every stop is "Periodista Americano" which means American Journalist, and gives them something to start on as they begin their inspection.

I have found my membership card in the Association of Foreign Correspondents accredited to the League of Nations most useful. Sometimes the armed citizenry thinks I am an official of the League and they wave me on with profound respect.

Bucks Potato Growers Back Standardization

has adopted for the sale of large potatoes a 15-pound paper bag, with an attractive Keystone emblem against a blue background displaying a potato. Medium sized potatoes will be sold in 15 pound bags with a red Keystone and extra large potatoes will be dispensed in 60 pound bags marked according to the grade.

Grading schools are being established all over the State and Mr. Hinstead will operate a centralized grading station for the local county group.

President Bishop is convinced that what the Bucks County Producers' Co-operative Association—commonly known as the egg auction—did for the egg producers the present set-up will perform for the spud growers.

"I used to sell eggs when anything that had a shell about it was an egg. That day is gone forever. Today your eggs meet the demands of the customers or you don't have to stop for their business next week. I can't see why potato growers are so hesitant about having their produce graded properly and labeled and sold in co-operative manner."

More than 8000 stores, including the largest nationally known chain stores, have indicated their willingness to co-operate with the potato growers of the State by buying all the home grown Pennsylvania potatoes they can get if the producers will grade them and put them on the market in a standardized fashion.

"Who is the market?" asked President Bishop. "The distributor, of course, and it is the aim of the co-operative movement to have a producer sell his entire crop in a volume rather than a shipment now and another some other time. It will pay a farmer better to sell all his potatoes at one time than parcel them out to individual buyers."

The idea of the co-operative venture for the first time in Bucks county in the potato field is to establish a grade the first year and by doing that create a demand for a standard product known for its excellence of quality and uniformity because of the honesty and inspected containers.

"Just because your father and grandfather used a stone fork to dig potatoes and bruised them so they were not fit to sell is no reason why you should do the same. Specialists will prove to you that if you were to let your potatoes lie for thirty minutes after digging that the skin would have set and in this way much of the bruising can be avoided.

The present acreage of potatoes is so small in Pennsylvania that stores in the State are compelled to annually import thousands of tons from Maine, and yet chain store executives openly express their approval and desire for home grown potatoes.

Mr. Bishop cited the instance of Bucks county slowly losing its hold on the potato market because it is turning to the raising of tomatoes and other produce.

The chief difficulty with the potato marketing program today is that it does not exist. Potatoes either are not dug or the later ones are not ready for shipment as yet.

The cost of grading the potatoes of the Bucks county growers will be announced at a later meeting but with the donation of a grader or sizer by President Bishop for the purpose of standardizing the potatoes the program fell in line with a State movement.
